The image displays six different Japanese school newsletters (Kōhō) arranged in a collage. Each newsletter is a full-page spread with various columns and illustrations.

- Top Left: A newsletter from a school in Oita Prefecture. It features a central column with a cartoon of two children. To the left is a column about a science experiment with a heart and a caterpillar. To the right is a column about a caterpillar's life cycle with sunflowers. The bottom section is titled "Kaitai Taimeis" (Experiment Time) and shows a cartoon character in a top hat and coat holding a magnifying glass over a lightning bolt and a frog.
- Top Right: A newsletter from a school in Yamagata Prefecture. It has a column titled "Kaitai no Inanaki" (Caterpillar Experiment) with a caterpillar and a heart. To the right is a column titled "Waga Yado" (Our Home) with a cartoon of a family. The bottom section is titled "Kaitai Taimeis" and shows a cartoon character in a top hat and coat holding a magnifying glass over a lightning bolt and a frog.
- Middle Left: A newsletter from a school in Miyazaki Prefecture. It features a central column with a cartoon of two children. To the left is a column about a school trip to a theme park. To the right is a column about a caterpillar's life cycle with sunflowers. The bottom section is titled "Kaitai Taimeis" and shows a cartoon character in a top hat and coat holding a magnifying glass over a lightning bolt and a frog.
